

WEBCAST | MAY 2022

How Talent Concerns Are Changing the Use of Equity

Aalap Shah

MANAGING DIRECTOR

Greg Stoeckel

MANAGING DIRECTOR

The ongoing talent shortage is affecting more than just annual salary budgets. Compensation committees are having to balance the need to attract and retain the right people in the right jobs with the potential long-range consequences that could arise from the expanded use of equity grants today.

In this Pearl Meyer/NACD webcast we share timely new data that illustrate shifting trends in how equity is used to compensate management—and increasingly roles lower in the organization. We also provide guidance on how to effectively communicate changes in equity strategy to existing shareholders, and how to explain the value of grants to plan participants to ensure maximum effectiveness as a retention vehicle.

About the Authors

Aalap specializes in executive compensation strategy—governance, pay-for-performance, and incentives—helping companies align business, people, and compensation strategy for effective programs.

Greg is a consulting team leader with 25+ years advising compensation committees and executives on executive and non-employee director pay, including performance metrics, governance, and SEC disclosure.

About Pearl Meyer

Pearl Meyer is the leading advisor to boards and senior management helping organizations build, develop, and reward great leadership teams that drive long-term success. Our strategy-driven compensation and leadership consulting services act as powerful catalysts for value creation and competitive advantage by addressing the critical links between people and outcomes. Our clients stand at the forefront of their industries and range from emerging high-growth, not-for-profit, and private organizations to the Fortune 500.

How Talent Concerns Are Changing the Use of Equity | pearlmeyer.com