

The Leadership Equity Index— How Do You Stack Up?

Beth Florin

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Most companies ensure equal pay for equal work in order to comply with legislation. But does that mean they are treating everyone—at all ranks within the organization—equitably?

The fact is equitability is much more than a pay discussion. It also means ensuring equal career opportunities, unbiased pay actions, similar development and mentoring opportunities, and a true culture of inclusion and belonging.

In part one of Pearl Meyer's two-part webinar series with Women Corporate Directors, we provided insights from work with clients on these critical issues and discussed data from a recent WCD member survey regarding how boards track and report on issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion. We discussed directors' experiences working with management teams to determine critical next steps for advancing DE&I initiatives, and explored what a "Leadership Equity Index" can tell you about your company's strengths and gaps, how this information is best shared and with whom, and what may need to change.

About the Author

Beth Florin is the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Pearl Meyer. She leads the firm's business and growth strategy, manages day-to-day operations, and serves on its board of directors. She oversees the organization's strategy-driven executive compensation consulting and compensation data services, as well as the expansion of its capabilities in the complementary areas of board governance and executive leadership development. Beth is the consultancy's expert on broad-based compensation, total remuneration surveys, pay equity, and diversity, equity, and inclusion (DE&I), working with clients in these important areas.

About Pearl Meyer

Pearl Meyer is the leading advisor to boards and senior management helping organizations build, develop, and reward great leadership teams that drive long-term success. Our strategy-driven compensation and leadership consulting services act as powerful catalysts for value creation and competitive advantage by addressing the critical links between people and outcomes. Our clients stand at the forefront of their industries and range from emerging high-growth, not-for-profit, and private organizations to the Fortune 500.
